COLLECTIVE ACTION COMPLAINT AND JURY TRIAL DEMAND

Plaintiffs SAUL HERRERA ("Mr. Herrera") and HUGO ORDONEZ (Mr. Ordonez) (collectively, "Plaintiffs"), on their own behalf and on behalf of all others similarly situated, by and through their undersigned attorneys, Hang & Associates, PLLC, hereby file this complaint against Defendants LAFAYETTE STREET PARTNERS, LLC d/b/a LAFAYETTE GRAND CAFÉ & BAKERY ("Lafayette Street Partners I:"), LAFAYETTE STREET PARTNERS II, LLC d/b/a LAFAYETTE GRAND CAFÉ & BAKERY ("Lafayette Street Partners II"), NOHO HOSPITALITY, LLC d/b/a NOHO HOSPITALITY GROUP ("NoHo Hospitality Group") (collectively, the "Corporate Defendants"), ERIC MELO ("Melo"), GUSTAVO DIAZ ("Diaz"), LUCIANO DUCO ("Duco"), LUKE OSTROM ("Ostrom"), NICHOLAS LORENTZ ("Lorentz"), BRYAN NASWORTHY ("Nasworthy"), and DOMINIC "DOE" (LAST NAME UNKNOWN)

("Dominic Doe") (collectively, the "Individual Defendants" and, together with the Corporate Defendants, the "Defendants"), and state as follows:

INTRODUCTION

1. This is an action brought by Plaintiffs on their own behalf and on behalf of similarly situated employees, alleging violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act, 29 U.S.C. § 201 et seq. ("FLSA"), and the New York Labor Law ("NYLL"), arising from Defendants' various willful and unlawful employment policies, patterns and/or practices.

2. Upon information and belief, Defendants have willfully and intentionally committed widespread violations of the FLSA, the NYLL, by engaging in a pattern and practice of failing to pay their employees, including Plaintiffs, compensation for minimum wages, overtime compensation for all hours worked over forty (40) each workweek, spread of hours pay for workdays lasting ten (10) hours or more, for failing to provide wage notices as required by the NYLL, and for illegally and fraudulently manipulating employee clock-in and clock-out times to reduce the number of Plaintiffs' hours recorded in business records.

3. Plaintiffs allege pursuant to the FLSA, that they are entitled to recover from the Defendants:

(1) unpaid minimum wages,

(2) unpaid overtime wages,

(3) liquidated damages,

(4) prejudgment and post-judgment interest, and

(5) attorneys' fees and costs.

4. Plaintiffs further allege pursuant to New York Labor Law § 650 et seq. and 12 New York Codes, Rules and Regulations §§ 146 ("NYCRR") that they are entitled to recover from the Defendants:

(1) unpaid minimum wages,

(2) unpaid overtime compensation,

(3) unpaid spread of hours premium for each day they worked ten (10) or more hours,

(4) compensation for failure to provide wage notices at the time of hiring in violation of the NYLL.

(5) liquidated damages equal to the sum of unpaid minimum wage and overtime pursuant to the NYLL.

(6) prejudgment and post-judgment interest, and

(7) attorneys' fees and costs.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

5. This Court may properly maintain jurisdiction over Defendants because Defendants' contacts with this state and this judicial district, including but not limited to operating a principal place of business and employing workers in this District, are sufficient to exercise jurisdiction over Defendants while complying with traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice.

6. This Court has original federal question jurisdiction over this controversy under 29 U.S.C. §216(b), 28 U.S.C. § 1331, 1337, and 1343 because the claims asserted herein seek to redress violations of the Plaintiffs' federal civil and statutory rights.

7. This Court has supplemental jurisdiction over Plaintiffs' state law claims pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1367 because these claims are so closely related to Plaintiffs' federal law wage and hour claims that they form parts of the same case or controversy under Article III of the United States Constitution; specifically, all claims asserted herein arise from Defendants' failure to pay required wages and Defendants' general unlawful employment policies.

8. Venue is proper in the Southern District of New York pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391 because Defendants conduct business in this District, and the following acts and omissions giving rise to the claims alleged herein took place in this District.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

General Wage and Hour Allegations

53. Defendants committed the following alleged acts knowingly, intentionally and willfully.

54. Defendants knew that the nonpayment of minimum wages, overtime pay, spread of hours premium, and failure to provide wage notices would financially injure Plaintiffs and similarly situated employees and violate state and federal laws.

55. Upon information and belief, Defendants used a computer to record employee clock-in and clock-out times (the "Timekeeper Computer"), which displays an employee's name, work role, clock-in or clock-out time, and in the case of clock-outs, the number of regular rate and overtime rate hours worked in the shift.

56. Upon information and belief, Defendants Melo, Diaz, Duco, Ostrom, Lorentz, Nasworthy, and Dominic Doe had or have authorization to modify Plaintiffs' clock-in and clock-out times.

57. Upon information and belief, Defendant Nasworthy verbally admitted to Plaintiffs that other managers manipulated computer records to reflect fewer hours than Plaintiffs actually worked.

58. Upon information and belief, the Timekeeper Computer frequently malfunctioned, requiring a manager to manually input Plaintiffs' hours into the Corporate Defendants' electronic timekeeping system.

59. Upon information and belief, managers sometimes entered Plaintiffs' clock-in and clock-out times incorrectly, leading to errors in the number of hours processed during payroll.

60. Upon information and belief, Defendants Eric Melo and Gustavo Diaz, and possibly other Defendants, were pressured by senior management to use fewer employee hours.

61. Plaintiffs have personal knowledge that Defendants Eric Melo and Gustavo Diaz intentionally manipulated Plaintiffs' clock-in and clock-out times to reduce the number of employee hours that their departments used, thus willfully and deliberately reducing the number of both regular rate and overtime hours for which Plaintiffs' were paid, in violation of the FLSA and the NYLL.

62. Defendants, therefore, did not compensate Plaintiffs for overtime compensation according to state and federal laws.

63. When Plaintiffs and other similarly situated employees complained to Human Resources regarding incorrectly recorded hours, Human Resources issued new checks with updated hours on a case-by-case basis.

64. Upon information and belief, Defendants' Human Resources department failed to remedy Defendants' practice of shaving Plaintiffs' hours even after Plaintiffs warned that the problem was a routine practice.

65. At all relevant times, Defendants therefore had a policy and practice of reducing Plaintiffs' hours recorded in Defendants' computer system.

66. Defendants did not provide Plaintiffs and other Class members with written notices about the terms and conditions of their employment upon hire in relation to their rate of pay, regular pay cycle, and rate of overtime pay.

67. Although Defendants provided Plaintiffs with an employee handbook at the time of hiring, Defendants' actual practices and policies often differed from their published policies, particularly as to recording and storing clock-in and clock-out information as well as procedures for reporting and addressing payment problems.

68. Defendants knew that the nonpayment of minimum wages, overtime pay, and spread of hours premiums would economically injure Plaintiffs and the Class Members by their violation of federal and state laws.

Saul Herrera

69. Mr. Herrera worked at Lafayette Grand Café & Bakery, located at 42-16 43rd Avenue, Sunnyside, NY 11104 from about July 5, 2013 to August 11, 2016.

70. Mr. Herrera's job title was Dishwasher. His primary responsibility was to wash dishes, silverware, and other items used in the restaurant.

71. While employed by Defendants, Mr. Herrera, a dishwasher who used soap and cleaning items to clean restaurant supplies, was in a non-exempt role under federal and state laws, which require employers to pay overtime to employees in such roles.

72. Defendants did not provide Mr. Herrera with wage notices when they hired him or at any time thereafter.

73. Defendants routinely provided Mr. Herrera with paystubs that underreported the number of hours he worked.

74. From about July 5, 2013 to August 11, 2016, Mr. Herrera worked about 48 hours each week. Although he worked different days each week and different hours each day depending on the schedule assigned to him by Defendants, he consistently worked five days per week for 10 hours per day. He was off two days per week.

75. Mr. Herrera sometimes worked a sixth day per week to fill in for absent coworkers.

76. Mr. Herrera was initially compensated at a rate of $9 per hour, which was eventually raised to $11 per hour and $16.50 per hour for overtime. However, due to punch-in clock malfunctions, manager carelessness, and hours illegally deleted by managers, Mr. Herrera was not paid for all hours that he worked.

77. For example, Mr. Herrera's paystub for the week of October 26, 2015 to November 1, 2015 states that he worked only 43.08 hours when in fact he worked 48 hours or more.

78. Mr. Herrera rarely, if ever, received the spread of hours pay for shifts lasting more than 10 hours.

Hugo Ordonez

79. Mr. Ordonez is a current employee Lafayette Grand Café & Bakery, located at 42-16 43rd Avenue, Sunnyside, NY 11104 who began working for Defendants on or around March 15, 2014.

80. Mr. Ordonez's job title is Dishwasher. His primary responsibility is to wash dishes, silverware, and other items used in the restaurant.

81. While employed by Defendants, Mr. Ordonez, a dishwasher who used soap and cleaning items to clean restaurant supplies, was in a non-exempt role under federal and state laws, which require employers to pay overtime to employees in such roles.

82. Defendants did not provide Mr. Ordonez with wage notices when they hired him or at any time thereafter.

83. Defendants routinely provided Mr. Ordonez with paystubs that underreported the number of hours he worked.

84. From about March 15, 2014, Mr. Ordonez worked about 45 hours each week. Although he worked different days each week and different hours each day depending on the schedule assigned to him by Defendants, he consistently worked five days per week for 9 hours per day. He was off two days per week.

85. Mr. Ordonez sometimes worked a sixth day per week to fill in for absent coworkers.

86. During this period, Mr. Ordonez was compensated at rates of $11 per hour in regular wages and $16.50 per hour for overtime, but due to punch-in clock malfunctions, manager carelessness, and hours illegally deleted by managers, Mr. Ordonez was not paid for all hours that he worked.

87. Mr. Ordonez rarely or never received the spread of hours for shifts lasting more than 10 hours.

COLLECTIVE ACTION ALLEGATIONS

88. In violation of the FLSA and New York Labor Law and the supporting federal and New York State Department of Labor Regulations, Defendants knowingly and willfully operated their business with a policy of not paying Plaintiffs and other similarly situated employees either the FLSA minimum wage rate, the FLSA overtime rate (of time and one-half), the New York State minimum wage rate, or the New York State overtime rate (of time and one-half).

89. Defendants knowingly and willfully operated their business with a policy of not paying the New York State spread of hours premium to Plaintiffs and other similarly situated employees.

90. Defendants knowingly and willfully operated their business with a policy of not paying for the busboy uniform that Mr. Galicia and other similarly situated employees needed for work, thus violating the FLSA's requirement that employers purchase employees' tools of the trade. 29 C.F.R. § 531.35.

91. Through entry of judgment in this case (the "Collective Action Period"), Plaintiffs bring this action individually and on behalf of all other and former non-exempt employees who have been or were employed by the Defendants at their restaurant for up to the last three (3) years, who were not paid minimum wages, overtime compensation for all hours worked in excess of forty (40) hours per week (the "Collective Action Members"), who have been subject to the same common decision, policy, and plan to not provide required wage notices at the time of hiring, and who were required to pay for tools of the trade that must be the burden of the employer, in contravention of federal and state labor laws.

92. Upon information and belief, the Collective Action Members are so numerous the joinder of all members is impracticable. The identity and precise number of such persons are unknown, and the facts upon which the calculations of that number may be ascertained are presently within the sole control of the Defendants. Upon information and belief, there are more than 10 Collective Action Members who have worked for or have continued to work for the Defendants during the Collective Action Period, most of whom would not likely file individual suits because they fear retaliation, lack adequate financial resources, access to attorneys, or knowledge of their claims. Therefore, Plaintiffs submit that this case should be certified as a collective action under the FLSA, 29 U.S.C. §216(b).

93. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Collective Action Members, and have retained counsel that is experienced and competent in the field of employment law and class action litigation. Plaintiffs have no interests that are contrary to or in conflict with those members of this collective action.

94. This action should be certified as Collective Action because the prosecution of separate actions by individual members of the Collective Action would risk creating either inconsistent or varying adjudication with respect to individual members of this class that would, as a practical matter, be dispositive of the interests of Members who are not parties to the adjudication, or subsequently impair or impede their ability to protect their interests.

95. A Collective Action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy because joinder of all members is impracticable. Furthermore, inasmuch as the damages suffered by individual Collective Action Members may be relatively small, the expense and burden of individual litigation makes it virtually impossible for the members of the collective action to individually seek redress for the wrongs done to them. There will be no difficulty in the management of this action as collective action.

96. Questions of law and fact common to members of the collective action predominate over questions that may affect only individual members because Defendants have acted on grounds generally applicable to all members. Among the questions of fact common to Plaintiffs and other Collective Action Members are:

a. whether the Defendants employed Collective Action members within the meaning of the FLSA;

b. whether the Defendants failed to pay the Collective Action Members statutory minimum wages required by the FLSA and the NYLL;

c. whether the Defendants filed to pay the Collective Action Members overtime wages for all hours worked above forty (40) each workweek in violation of the FLSA and the regulation promulgated thereunder;

d. whether the Defendants failed to pay the Collective Action Members spread of hours compensation for each day an employee worked over 10 hours;

e. whether the Defendants required the Collective Action Members to pay for tools of the trade that the FLSA actually requires employers to pay;

f. whether the Defendants failed to provide the Collective Action Members with a wage notice at the time of hiring as required by the NYLL;

g. whether the Defendants' violations of the FLSA are willful as that terms is used within the context of the FLSA;

h. whether the Defendants had a policy or practice of paying female employees less than similarly situated male employees; and,

i. whether the Defendants are liable for all damages claimed hereunder, including but not limited to compensatory, punitive, and statutory damages, interest, costs and disbursements and attorneys' fees.

97. Plaintiffs know of no difficulty that will be encountered in the management of this litigation that would preclude its maintenance as a collective action.

98. Plaintiffs and others similarly situated have been substantially damaged by Defendants' unlawful conduct.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

99. Plaintiffs bring their NYLL claims pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure ("F. R. C. P.") Rule 23, on behalf of all non-exempt persons employed by Defendants at their restaurant doing business as The Corporate Defendants on or after the date that is six years before the filing of the Complaint in this case as defined herein (the "Class Period").

100. All said persons, including Plaintiffs, are referred to herein as the "Class." The Class members are readily ascertainable. The number and identity of the Class members are determinable from the records of Defendants. The hours assigned and worked, the positions held, and the rate of pay for each Class Member is also determinable from Defendants' records. For purpose of notice and other purposes related to this action, their names and addresses are readily available from Defendants. Notice can be provided by means permissible under said Rule 23.

101. The proposed Class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable, and the disposition of their claims as a class will benefit the parities and the Court. Although the precise number of such persons is unknown, and the facts on which the calculation of the number is presently within the sole control of the Defendants, upon information and belief, there are more than 10 members of the class.

102. Plaintiffs' claims are typical of those claims which could be alleged by any member of the Class, and the relief sought is typical of the relief that would be sought by each member of the Class in separate actions. All the Class members were subject to the same corporate practices of Defendants, as alleged herein, of failing to pay statutory minimum wages, overtime compensation, spread of hours pay, expenses related to tools of the trade, and wage notice violations. Defendants' corporation-wide policies and practices, including but not limited to their failure to provide a wage notice at the time of hiring, affected all Class members similarly, and Defendants benefited from the same type of unfair and/ or wrongful acts as to each Class member. Plaintiffs and other Class members sustained similar losses, injuries and damages arising from the same unlawful policies, practices and procedures.

103. Plaintiffs are able to fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class and has no interests antagonistic to the Class. Plaintiffs are represented by attorneys who are experienced and competent in representing Plaintiffs in both class action and wage and hour employment litigation cases.

104. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy, particularly in the context of wage and hour litigation where individual Class members lack the financial resources to vigorously prosecute corporate defendants. Class action treatment will permit a large number of similarly situated persons to prosecute their common claims in a single forum simultaneously, efficiently, and without the unnecessary duplication of efforts and expenses that numerous individual actions engender. The losses, injuries, and damages suffered by each of the individual Class members are small in the sense pertinent to a class action analysis, thus the expenses and burden of individual litigation would make it extremely difficult or impossible for the individual Class members to redress the wrongs done to them. Further, important public interests will be served by addressing the matter as a class action. The adjudication of individual litigation claims would result in a great expenditure of Court and public resources; however, treating the claims as a class action would result in a significant saving of these costs. The prosecution of separate actions by individual members of the Class would create a risk of inconsistent and/or varying adjudications with respect to the individual members of the Class, establishing incompatible standards of conduct for Defendants and resulting in the impairment of class members' rights and the disposition of their interests through actions to which they were not parties. The issues in this action can be decided by means of common, class-wide proof. In addition, if appropriate, the Court can, and is empowered to, fashion methods to efficiently manage this action as a class action.

105. Upon information and belief, Defendants and other employers throughout the state violate the New York Labor Law. Current employees are often afraid to assert their rights out of fear of direct or indirect retaliation. Former employees are fearful of bringing claims because doing so can harm their employment, future employment, and future efforts to secure employment. Class actions provide class members who are not named in the complaint a degree of anonymity which allows for the vindication of their rights while eliminating or reducing these risks.

106. There are questions of law and fact common to the Class which predominate over any questions affecting only individual class members, including:

a. whether Defendants employed Plaintiffs and the Class within the meaning of the NYLL;

b. whether Plaintiffs and Class members are entitled to minimum wages under the NYLL;

c. whether Plaintiffs and Class members are entitled to overtime under the NYLL;

d. whether Defendants maintained a policy, pattern and/or practice of failing to pay Plaintiffs and the Rule 23 Class spread of hours pay as required by the NYLL;

e. whether the Defendants provided wage notices at the time of hiring to Plaintiffs and class members as required by the NYLL;

f. whether the Defendants had a policy or practice of paying female employees less than similarly situated male employees;

g. whether Defendants wrongfully terminated employees in retaliation for filing complaints of harassment in the workplace; and

h. at what common rate, or rates subject to common method of calculation were and are the Defendants required to pay the Class members for their work
